The Connecticut Firemen's Historical Society is largely funded by membership dues and donations from members and friends. The mission of the Society is the collection and preservation of the artifacts of the Fire Service, concentrating on Connecticut. Through the display of those items in our museum, we aim to educate firefighters and the public about Connecticut's Fire Service history. Your gifts of money will help us sustain and expand our activities. In addition, your donations of significant fire-related items may be incorporated into the Society's collections to help further our mission.

The Society is a 501(c)3 organization, and as such all monetary contributions are fully tax deductible. Your accountant can give you details on tax benefits from the donation of materials.
